Sydney's original Bondi Beach Surf School Lets Go Surfing (LGS) are leaders in surf education and skills development for kids and students. They build fun and healthy activities into curriculums, after school lessons and holiday programs in partnership with schools, universities, education institutions and the Australian government.

Former physical education teacher, mum and LGS Founder and Director Brenda Miley understands education both in the classroom and the ocean. Education about surf safety from a young age is proven to reduce the risk and likelihood of injury or death in the water. LGS take this responsibility seriously and plays a leading role in developing surf skills, knowledge and awareness amongst 5-12 year olds.

LGS provide surf education and safety programs for around 13000 NSW school children each year. Using high quality equipment, lessons cover warmup, paddling and catching waves and multi-lesson courses improve on basic skills. Beach games, body surfing sand sculpture, building model rips, beach walks and surf safety rules on rips, tides, sandbars and waves mix fun and potentially life-saving education. Parents know their children are in the expert and safe hands of true professionals in surf tuition.

LGS's range of educational surf experiences and products include:

- School holiday camps, surf education programs, after school lessons and multi-lesson courses
- Government accredited certificates confirming lessons and course meet the highest standards of compliance
- Regularly updated surf education content and equipment provide an unrivalled quality standard
- Weet-Bix SurfGroms Delivery Centre
- Tailor made School Surf Camps based on nationally recognised outdoor education programs
- Lessons and courses for young adults studying English as a second language with Lexis English Language School
- Traineeships and skills development courses in association with Surfing NSW, local schools, universities and vocational education providers.

Explains Founder and Director Brenda Miley:

"Surfing is about fun but requires skills and a healthy respect for the ocean and beach environment. We thrive on seeing the development of kids and students from all walks of life through Lets Go Surfing's surf education programs."
